

CHAPTER V CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

The Owabong website translation process describes the process of collecting and processing data from the website. The steps involves observing the various features and information present on the website, creating the data in text format, and then translating it into English. It is crucial for the author to understand the meaning, context and purpose of the source website. Errors in the writing of Owabong's original text were found and corrected during the translation process.

In addition, the Owabong translation process confirmed that being a good translator requires more than just language knowledge. Good communication skills, familiarity with translation techniques, and a deep understanding of cultural aspects are the keys to success. By involving interviews with relevant parties, such as Owabong's marketing manager, translators can respond to more specific needs and objectives in ensuring accurate and culturally appropriate translations. The translation process not only creates access to information for English-speaking audiences but also strengthens the international image of Owabong's tourist destination.

B. Suggestion

For students who want to choose translation as their focus of study, there are a few things they should know. The first is to be able to read and understand different types of texts well as this helps to build and expand vocabulary. The second is to understand the cultural context of both languages, as it is crucial to help translate not just the words, but the meaning and nuances contained. The third is to improve your writing skills, as they are indispensable in translation. And the fourth, by practicing translating many texts, it can also improve translation skills and also add insight in order to improve the quality of translation results.