A. Conclusion

Based on the results of research that has been carried out and discussion of the research results that have been outlined in tables and analysis, it can be concluded that:

1. The level of public legal awareness regarding clean and healthy living behavior in preventing communicable diseases in Kedungbanteng Village, Kedungbanteng District, Banyumas, Central Java is moderate, this can be proven by the following indicators:
 - a. The high level of legal knowledge of the community towards clean and healthy living behavior;
 - b. The moderate level of community legal understanding towards clean and healthy living behavior;
 - c. The large number of people's agreeable attitudes towards clean and healthy living behaviors; and
 - d. The number of community behavior patterns that are not in accordance with clean and healthy living behavior.
2. Facilities and infrastructure factors as social factors, discipline factors and motivation factors as personal factors tend to positively influence clean and healthy living behavior in preventing communicable diseases in Kedungbanteng Village, Kedungbanteng Subdistrict, Banyumas, Central

Java. This implies that the better the facilities and infrastructure, the higher the level of discipline and motivation, the higher the level of public legal awareness of clean and healthy living behavior in preventing communicable 18 diseases in Kedungbanteng Village, Kedungbanteng Subdistrict, Banyumas, Central Java.

B. Suggestion

From the above conclusions, the researcher provides the following suggestions:

1. For every citizen, especially for family members, to remind each other and together routinely in carrying out clean and healthy living behavior.
2. For cadres to be able to provide counseling to the community by visiting homes about PHBS. And urge the community to always apply PHBS in everyday life.
3. For law enforcers, the most important thing is to support clean government. The one here is aimed at government officials in Kedungbanteng Village, Kedungbanteng District, Banyumas, Central Java. For example, starting from the village head, the village officials below him, then to each RT head and RW head. Legislation is also very important in running a government so that there are no more conflicting laws under higher laws. For law enforcement in the application of PHBS, it must also be guided by established regulations.
