A. Conclusion

The writer carried out job training for a period of approximately three months, from 9 September 2024 – 9 Desember 2024 at Tourist Information Centre – Tourism Office of Yogyakarta. This job training is a valuable experience in supporting the development of professional competence. From the implementation of training program, it provide space for the writer to implement the knowledge gained during the studies into a practical context. This significantly improved the ability to analyze problems and giving an information in a two-way communication, serving the guest especially the foreigner, and also to adapt on various challenges of the workplace. The lack of the media and the unavailability of the information about philosopy axis of Yogyakarta, was one of the reasons for the writer to carried out job training at Tourist Information Centre of Yogyakarta, with the availability of information about the philosopy axis of Yogyakarta and also was expected to able to help the foreigners, to provide them about the information related.

In carried out the job training, the writer conducted the observations to seek information related to the workplace of the Tourist Information Centre. The writer found there was still a lack of media containing some information that guests might be looking for. In addition, there were two additional methods, the writer was conducted interview with one of the TIC staff, and used documentation during the implementation of job training, such as took a pictures an activties on the office, information supporting documents included in the final project report, took photos objects of the three pillars of the Philosophy axis for the final product of the writer and as a complement to the data, the writer also conducted a literature study to various documents and media at the TIC that were in accordance with the topic written.

In preparing the e-booklet of the Philosophy Axis of Yogyakarta in the Tourist Information Centre of Yogyakarta, there were several steps that have been taken by the writer, namely made observation to determine main topic, had discussion with the staff of the TIC regarding the topic related to the main topic of the product, through this process, the writer not only improved his English skills, but also deepened his understanding of the local culture. In addition, this internship contributed to building ability to work under pressure, improving communication skills in English, and establish effective communication at the work environment. The writer was very grateful for the opportunity given and hopes that all the knowledge and experience gained can be useful in the future and hopes that the product produced can be useful media at the Tourist Information Centre.

B. Suggestions

The writer recommends to the students who will be working on similar projects should conduct thorough research on their selected topic, particularly if it involves aspects of local culture. Having a strong understanding of the cultural background will greatly support the writing and translation stages. In addition, consistently seeking feedback from supervisors and relevant contributors is important to ensure continuous improvement of the work. Using design tools like Canva is also recommended, as it simplifies the process of creating visually appealing and professional layouts. In conclusion, the writer hopes this e-booklet could be a useful reference and source of inspiration for readers to learn more about the information of Yogyakarta's cultural philosophy.
