

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Based on the results of the internship conducted at RRI Purwokerto, the author obtained various experiences and insights in the field of journalism, especially in writing and reporting news on the RRI Purwokerto website. During the internship, the author was not only involved in coverage activities and preparation of news scripts, but also participated in the editing process and live broadcasting. The author aimed to create an e-guidance book entitled “News Writing Made Easy: A Step by Step to English News Reporting and Writing” during the internship at RRI Purwokerto. The e-guidance book helps interns at RRI Purwokerto to write news well according to the teachings of RRI Purwokerto. Through a gradual approach, this book equips readers with basic knowledge to advanced practices in compiling informative and interesting news according to journalistic standards. The existence of this guide not only fills the practical reference void at RRI Purwokerto, but is also expected to improve the quality and consistency of news products in the world of journalists and at RRI Purwokerto, as well as strengthen the writing skills of journalists and contributors in today's digital era.

B. Suggestion

The author suggests that RRI Purwokerto continues to provide opportunities for students to do active internships. Especially in the field of journalism. In addition, it is hoped that the e-guidance book that has been compiled can be utilized sustainably by subsequent interns and updated regularly in accordance with the latest developments in language and journalistic practices. Then by creating an e-guidance book "News Writing Made Easy: A Step by Step to English News Reporting and Writing", it can be routinely utilized in training programs and internship debriefings at RRI Purwokerto, especially for students who will carry out internships in the future, it is advisable to prepare themselves with basic knowledge of journalism, English language skills, and adaptability in a professional work environment, so that they are able to participate in all activities optimally and gain useful experience for the development of academic and practical competencies.

