

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

There are several important results and lessons learned during the job training at RRI Purwokerto, particularly in the broadcast section. The job training consists of three stages: preparation, production, and post-production. Among these stages, post-production is the most challenging to implement due to the complexity of video editing. From this internship, several valuable lessons were gained. First, good planning and coordination are essential in every activity. Secondly, this internship also enhanced leadership skills and the ability to manage time efficiently. Additionally, it provided opportunities to develop strong interpersonal communication skills and effective discussion abilities. Lastly, this job training taught how to manage projects in a comprehensive and structured manner.

B. Suggestion

Here are some suggestions that may be considered to enrich the Pro 2 content on the RRI Digital Platform. First, educational learning content videos should be made available so that listeners not only receive entertainment and information but also gain useful knowledge. Secondly, it is important to provide English content videos to improve English skills, especially for students, who are one of the primary target audiences. Third, existing broadcasts or content can also be supplemented with an English version, either in the form of translations or vocabulary inserts, to expand vocabulary and familiarize listeners with the use of English in everyday contexts. Lastly, the expectation for the future is that these content videos about English language learning can be continued by the next interns, especially in the broadcast division, to be uploaded on the RRI Digital Platform.