

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

This report discussed the process of creating a bilingual booklet (Indonesian–English) during the internship at the Banyumas Regional Archives and Library Office (Dinarpusda), which took place from August 26 to December 27, 2024. The booklet was developed as a printed information medium to help visitors understand the library's services, facilities, and regulations. I conducted observations, interviews, content writing, design, and translation throughout the production process.

Despite facing several obstacles such as health issues and limited references, I successfully completed the booklet with guidance from supervisors and independent effort. The final product was expected to be useful for both local and foreign visitors.

B. Suggestion

I suggested that Dinarpusda apply bilingual information in more of its public media and develop a digital version of the booklet to expand accessibility. Distributing it through the official website or social media could also improve public engagement and library promotion.

In addition, the digital version of the booklet provided easier access for the wider public, especially in today's digital era. Many people preferred accessing information through electronic devices rather than in printed form. By distributing the booklet online, whether through the official website or social media, the information delivered reached a broader audience without geographical limitations.
