

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

During my job training at Dinas Arsip dan Perpustakaan Daerah Kabupaten Banyumas, I gained a lot of new knowledge and experience, especially in processing archival data efficiently and assisting library visitors by guiding them to the visitor registration computer and helping them find books in a friendly and patient way. I also learned the importance of teamwork and discipline in the workplace. The support from all the staff really helped the training go smoothly. Even though I faced some challenges when translating the website's profile menu, I was able to complete it successfully. Overall, all of these experiences became valuable lessons for my personal growth and future career.

B. Suggestion

In translating the profile menu of the Dinas Arsip dan Perpustakaan Daerah Kabupaten Banyumas website, where the general public is the target audience, it is important to maintain high quality and readability of the translation. The translated content should be clear and easy to understand for users. Attention must also be given to details such as vocabulary choice, correct grammar, and accurate use of government-related terms in the target language to avoid misinterpretation. By ensuring these aspects, the translation can effectively convey information while preserving the original meaning and institutional.

For students who choose translation as their focus should practice translating more materials, including fiction and non-fiction, to get better at translating. When working on texts in a specific field, it is helpful to read a lot about that field to gain better understanding and produce a more accurate translation. You can choose to translate the website, such as the other menu items and news articles, or translate the information and educational boards on display. You can also create handbook, brochures, posters, and videos for social media.